CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) - For a sixth year, the Wyoming Film Office is running the Wyoming Short Film Contest.

The annual contest asks moviemakers to submit films of 15 minutes or less featuring the state of Wyoming. Contestants can choose to film in the state, set their stories in Wyoming or use the state as a central character.

A judging panel of film production, visual arts and industry representatives will choose one film to win $25,000.

The contest kicks off this week, and submissions are due by April 5.
