LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - Nebraska Gov. Dave Heineman and first lady Sally Ganem are promoting volunteerism in advance of a statewide service week.

The ServeNebraska Week of Service is set to run from April 22-28 in each of Nebraska's 93 counties. The governor and first lady are expected to read to students on April 23 at McPhee Elementary School in Lincoln.

Nebraska ranks in the top 10 in volunteerism among the 50 states and Washington, D.C.

Jamesena Moore, chairwoman of ServeNebraska, says ambassadors are available to connect volunteers with service opportunities in all parts of the state.
