RAPID CITY, S.D. (ASSOCIATED PRESS) - A father of five children denies being the man who tried to rob two people outside of a Rapid City restaurant.

Police say the victims were reportedly waiting for their shift to begin when 27-year-old Chad Dubray allegedly climbed into the backseat of their car Friday afternoon, threatened to kill them and demanded money.

A witness at the scene identified Dubray and he was arrested later at his home.

Dubray made his initial court appearance Monday and said he did not know the victims. He also said he is working two jobs to support his family.

Magistrate Judge Shawn Pahlke set Dubray's bond at $20,000.
