LINCOLN, Neb. - Nebraska officials are urging those who lost livestock to last month's blizzard and subsequent flooding to seek help removing carcasses before a Monday deadline.

Ranchers and farmers in federally-declared disaster areas in Nebraska have until April 15 to report the carcasses to the Nebraska Dept of Environmental Quality for help removing them.

The department's carcass removal hotline is 1-877-253-2603 while USDA crews will handle pick-up and disposal of the animals.
