PIERRE, S.D. (AP) - South Dakota Secretary of Social Services Dr Greg DeSautel is quitting less than 4 months after being appointed. Gov. Kristi Noem says DeSautel is resigning effective May 22.

DeSautel said in a statement issued through the governor's office that he had decided to return to medical work, describing it as his "strongest passion."

When appointed in January, he was working as an ear, nose and throat specialist at Sanford Health, and had long taught medicine at the University of South Dakota.
