BROKEN BOW, Neb. (ASSOCIATED PRESS) - One-third of the contestants on a female hunting show competition are from Nebraska this season.

Two of the six contestants on "Ammo and Attitude" are Nebraskans. The show begins airing on the Pursuit channel on Nov. 2.

The show was filmed on 15 days in April on a Florida ranch near Orlando.

Kimaree Woodward of Broken Bow and Angie Kokes from Ord will be featured on the show, but neither can say how they fared.

Woodward says she practiced with a variety of weapons because contestants never knew what they would shoot beforehand.
